

Transparent team calendar management with Jira and Confluence

An efficient time planning for your employees is the essential precondition for a productive use of your teams. Without all your appointments being centrally available – concerning tasks, projects, meetings, trainings, or holidays – you can never holistically plan on a grand scale.

Team calendar management with Jira and Confluence ensures that all important information relevant for planning is displayed in the calendar. Whether directly integrated with task, absence, and project management or through the central integration into your enterprise's knowledge base – you decide. That way, you can always keep track of your teams and can even plan important project deadlines and milestones with the aid of the calendar.
