

Staff appraisals with Jira and Confluence

Staff appraisals are one of the main tasks of every enterprise's management, as they are one of the most important instruments to promote your employees' motivation, to transparently convey your goals and to maintain communication. The necessary expenditure is often underestimated, the documentation itself often turns out very heterogeneous. This might lead to the management perceiving these tasks in different ways – with all related consequences. With Jira and Confluence, you concentrate all necessary information in one place, you do not lose any time with manually evaluating any filled-out forms, can directly evaluate all of your employee's tasks and can consequently track your teams' development over the years.
